

PRODUCT REVIEW

TRISWIM

You're working hard to improve your interior, but are you taking care of your exterior too?

If you are like me, you dread leaving the pool smelling like chlorine for the rest of the day. When going to bed after a night time swim my wife will often comment about how I smell like the pool. I wish it were the smell of a Calvin Klein fragrance, however, swimmers are often stuck with the chemical smell for at least a few showers. This is not all! My skin is always dry as a bone after leaving the pool. I'm often itchy and irritable from head to toe because of the chlorine (and whatever else is going into the pool).

TriSwim products have solved these problems for me. Since July, I've used TriSwim's body wash, shampoo, conditioner and lotion. These products are designed to relieve the swimmer's body from the brutal chlorine and replace the chlorine smell with a mild citrus scent.

I highly recommend the products. The days of walking around smelling like chlorine are gone, and I feel like I'm proactively taking care of my body's exterior. No longer do I smell like the pool and my hair doesn't feel dead. And best of all, my skin isn't irritable whenever I stretch, or turn to the side (i.e. any movement). This stuff does its job. I used the four products religiously, and my body has been much happier since.

The days of the public pool damaging my exterior are gone. If you face the same dilemmas I did, give TriSwim a shot. The shampoo, body wash and lotion retail for $10.99. The conditioner retails for 13.95. Visit TriSwim online at www.Tri-Swim.com for retailers.

